Epidemiology 101 Masterclass

11 – 15 December 2023

Do you want to protect animals from disease, ensure food security and promote safe trade in food and animal products? Applied epidemiology is critical to meet these challenges.

Please join us for an exciting masterclass to learn and discuss core epidemiological principles and concepts and how to apply these in your field.

This course is suitable for those with a baseline knowledge of epidemiology, such as:

- government staff and private practitioners
- graduate students wishing to increase their understanding of epidemiology
- Australian and New Zealand College of Veterinary Scientists (ANZCVS) membership candidates

Led by Dr. Brendan Cowled, our course will focus on the most important principles, challenging concepts, real-world applications and examples.
